

DANIELLE SPARANDERA

CIO Ways of Working, IBM

As a leader at IBM, Danielle is responsible for the CIO Ways of Working and is passionate about focusing on the human and cultural aspects of transformation. She and her teams drive iterative improvement of processes and approaches to create a productive environment for IBMers. Committed to fostering an optimal employee experience, her teams offer programming to uplift Agile skills, cultivate a sense of community within our CIO offices and drive operational efficiencies.